I understand that COVID-19 is causing us all to ask a lot of questions right now. One question I know you are all wondering is if Gamma Phi Beta is still hosting Convention in June.

In full transparency, I wish we had the answer! If we know anything to be true right now, it is that we must keep moving forward and take things one day at a time. What was true for us all last week, is certainly different this week, and I can imagine next week will be different yet again.

That being said, our plans for Convention 2020 are moving forward at this time. We will continue having discussions around COVID-19 and how it will impact Convention and our course may change as new developments arise. The safety of our members deserves our utmost attention and we are taking this very seriously as we continue the planning process.

In the meantime, we encourage you to proceed with your Convention registration as planned. This will be a huge help as we begin ordering materials and plan for how many attendees we need to accommodate onsite.

You have until April 29 to register before prices increase. And rest assured, you will have until May 27 to cancel your convention registration with a full refund.

Need more information? We encourage you to read through all Convention related materials and register today.

I hope you can use this time to rest and recharge, and we hope to see you in sunny California in June to reconnect with our sisterhood.

Please do not hesitate to reach out to me if you have any questions. I will keep you posted should our plans change.

Sincerely,

Page Adams
