FACILITIES MANAGEMENT COMPANY UPDATE REGARDING FALL 2020 HOUSING

May 29, 2020

Centennial, Colorado – Under normal operations, the Gamma Phi Beta Facilities Management Company (FMC) would be prepping for move out and summer work. Due to the impact of COVID-19, we are instead building contingency plans for many different facilities this fall.

It is not possible to know at this time how COVID-19 will result in changes in student housing and residential life this upcoming year. Each university is evaluating classes and facilities and promising additional information in the weeks to come.

Consequently, we cannot guarantee at this point in time if our facilities will be open or how they will open, as we rely on the information from the universities as well as local public health departments to guide us in making these decisions. We are still awaiting information on how and when it will be possible to open.

We are committed to supporting our members in various ways through this pandemic, and we hope that if members want to return to the facilities, they will be able to for the fall terms as they are the primary residence for many students.
